

World Languages and Cultures

Faculty: Compte, Didi-Ogren, Gabriel-Stheeman, Goebel (Chair), Huguet-Jerez, Mi, Morin, Otero, Pfenninger, Warner-Ault, and Wright.

The World Languages and Cultures curriculum is designed to increase a student's proficiency in another language by developing four skill areas: aural comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing. The knowledge of another language and culture is a cornerstone of a liberal education and is a key to interacting in a complex and multicultural world. The department offers beginning, intermediate, and advanced language instruction in Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, and Spanish. Classes are conducted in the target languages. There is a language laboratory and an Oral Proficiency Class to supplement classroom instruction. Advanced courses in linguistics, literature, history, and culture are offered. The department offers a major in Spanish and a major in World Languages and Linguistics with area specialties in French, Italian, Japanese or Spanish. There is also the opportunity to create a self-designed major or a minor in Chinese, French, German Studies, Italian Studies, Japanese, Spanish, and Linguistics.

The department offers Intensive Courses in Chinese, Japanese. CHI and JPN 151 are offered in the fall and cover the material/skills from the former 101-102 courses. CHI, and JPN 152 are offered in the spring and cover the material/skills from the former 103-201 courses. CHI and JPN 251 are offered in the fall and cover the material/skills from the former 202-301 courses. Each of these courses meets four days a week for 80 minutes each class day, plus an Oral Proficiency Class (50 minutes). Each of these courses carries two (2) course units of academic credit.

Students who have a TCNJ GPA of 3.3 or above are automatically approved after submitting the overload interest form to take 5 units if two of the five units are from a 151, 152 or 251 intensive language course. (Students whose GPA is below 3.3 do not qualify for the automatic overload permission.) Incoming freshmen and transfer students will not have a TCNJ GPA and are therefore not allowed to take five units until they can establish their TCNJ GPA at the required 3.3 level or higher. Please see each language for more information or contact the chair of the department.

The Spanish major provides intensive study of the literature, language, and cultures of the Spanish-speaking world. The Spanish major can be successfully combined with a major or minor in another discipline such as business, English, history, international studies, political science, or psychology in preparation for graduate and professional studies.

The department offers different tracks within the Spanish major:

- Spanish: Liberal Arts
- Spanish: Early Childhood Education
- Spanish: Elementary Education
- Spanish: Education of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing

- Spanish: Special Education
- Spanish: Urban Education

The new major in World Languages and Linguistics offers students a strong grounding in linguistics coupled with in-depth study of one of the world languages already offered at the college: French, Italian, Japanese, or Spanish. The major consists of five linguistics courses and seven courses in the world language. The seven world language courses will be the student's specialization within the major, and that specialization will be tracked in PAWS and reflected on the student's transcript at graduation. At least 5 courses must be taken at the 300 level. The new major is housed in the Department of World Languages and Cultures, and incorporates the best practices with regard to the teaching of world languages already in place in the WLC Department.

The major assumes no previous foreign language study. Even if students enter with no knowledge of a foreign language, they will have ample time to complete the required seven language courses. Students entering the major at a higher proficiency level will be able to take a greater number of upper level courses in the foreign language. Students will be actively encouraged to complete at least one semester of study abroad. They will be able to take three language and linguistics courses for the WLL major and one free elective during their semester abroad.

Foreign Language Requirement

The Requirement—As part of The College of New Jersey's liberal learning program, all degree candidates in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences are required to show proficiency in a foreign language unless exempted. Students in the Schools of the Arts and Communication, Science, and Business should consult with their advisor or assistant dean about language requirements for individual programs of study. Satisfactory evidence of proficiency is completion of the 103 or 152 level of language study (equivalent to three semesters). While most students opt to continue in the foreign language previously studied, they may begin study of a new foreign language.

Placement—Students who choose to begin the study of a new foreign language should enroll at the 101 level or 151 for languages offering the intensive courses. All students who wish to begin or to continue studying a language MUST take the TCNJ Language Placement Test for placement at the appropriate level. The TCNJ Language Placement Test is offered online throughout the academic year. Native or Heritage speakers of Spanish may not take Spanish classes at the 100 level. Please see the World Languages and Cultures Department webpage for additional details.

Exemption—Students may be exempted from the foreign language requirement if they demonstrate sufficient proficiency in a foreign language on the TCNJ placement test and by one of the following means:

- a score of 5 on the ETS Advanced Placement Language or Literature Examination
- a score of 650 or above on the SAT II Language Examination
- exemption through the TCNJ Language Placement Test

- a minimum of an Intermediate rating on the ACTFL Oral Proficiency Interview

If a student wishes to gain exemption in a language not taught at The College of New Jersey, the student may arrange to take an approved test through the World Languages and Cultures Department. The cost of that test must be paid by the student. Bilingual students are eligible for exemption in all of the ways described above.

The Best Time to Begin Language Study—Students are urged to enroll in a foreign language during their first year and to continue their study in consecutive semesters.

Credit for 101 Language Courses—Students who have taken four or more years of one language in high school will not receive credit for 101 in that language. Typically, these students are more appropriately placed at the 102 or 103 level, and can fulfill the Foreign Language Requirement with successful completion of 103.

Transfer Students

Students who have completed one or more courses in the language who must meet a language requirement or wish to continue their language studies must take the TCNJ Language Placement Test to determine the appropriate level for the next language course. Students who have never studied the language may enroll in a language 101 or 151 course.

Linguistics Minor

Coordinators: Morin, Steele

The minor in Linguistics offers students the opportunity to study language systems structurally and functionally. Linguistics, as a discipline or nexus of disciplines, allows for multiple methodologies and approaches to investigate linguistic change, variation, and structure. As an inherently interdisciplinary field, linguistics offers students an opportunity to synthesize multiplex theories across both departmental and school boundaries. Through their systematic study of language, students will find their curricula immeasurably enriched and their professional opportunities expanded.

The curriculum reflects the debt of linguistics to the field known historically as philology, the investigation of older languages as recorded in texts, as well as the impact of post-Generative linguistic theory. As a result, the minor allows students to self-select concentrations. Students may choose to pursue electives that enrich their understanding of historical linguistics or that expand their understanding of language acquisition and psycholinguistics. Irrespective of their own concentration on a particular sub-discipline, all students will gain a grounding in contemporary linguistic theory that has direct applications in the fields of education, literature, computer science, and psychology.

Courses in Linguistic Theory will provide a foundation whereby students will understand the structure of human languages, focusing on developing tools for the description and application of phonology, morphology, syntax, semantics, and pragmatics. They will become proficient in the IPA. They will be introduced to the physical apparatus required for language production (the vocal tract, the auditory and visual systems). Students will be exposed to dialectal variation, learning to respect and understand diversity in language use, patterns, and dialects across cultures, ethnic groups, geographic regions, and social roles. Students will become familiar with the purviews of first and second language acquisition.

Courses in the Linguistic History category provide an opportunity for students to apply their theoretical knowledge (especially in the fields of phonology, morphology, syntax, and lexis) to diachronic linguistics. Students will become familiar with the impact of cultural, economic, political, and social environments on language. Students will begin to read, analyze, and report on linguistics scholarship.

Courses in the Options category will provide a further opportunity for students to practice skills developed in the other two groups. Students will also use a number of different modes of inquiry, including, but not limited to, informant interviews and linguistic corpora analysis. Students will also learn how to engage non-native speakers (or speakers of non-standard varieties) in productive dialogue about their language use. Independent study courses on appropriate linguistic topics may be counted toward elective credit in the Linguistics minor.

Students interested in a minor in Linguistics should consult with one of the program's coordinators as early as possible to plan their program of study.

No more than one course taken toward the student's major may be counted in the Linguistics Minor.
