

Bachelor of Science—Business Administration

The Bachelor of Science—Business Administration offers specializations in finance, interdisciplinary business, management, and marketing. The specializations share a common set of courses that provide students with the knowledge and skills to:

- Develop effective oral and written communication skills.
- Function effectively in the workplace using knowledge of the core principles of the major business disciplines.
- Understand the basic methods of problem-solving and decision-making.
- Develop a sense of ethical and social responsibility.
- Utilize effective teamwork and leadership skills.
- Several minors in are also available and described below.

Global Business: Business Depth & International Breadth

Students interested in global business may combine any business major (accounting, finance, marketing, etc.) with a secondary major or minor in International Studies (IS) offered through the School of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Finance Specialization

Faculty: Choi, Hume, Kim, Patrick, Szabo, Xie

The study of finance provides the student with the ability to analyze the allocation of financial resources within a corporate, individual, or government setting; to analyze sources of funding and the ramifications of financial decisions; and to allocate these sources of funds. Students who complete the finance program are employed by banks, financial institutions, brokerage houses, major corporations, investment management firms, and the government. Students are also prepared to continue their education in graduate school and through professional certification.

Interdisciplinary Business Specialization

Faculty: Lasher, Michels, Monseau

The Interdisciplinary Business (IDB) specialization is for those students who evince a genuine commitment to interdisciplinarity. These are the students most likely to search for connections between business and non-business disciplines, and make the case about the value of their studies to future employers.

IDB is a unique specialization in the School of Business that allows students to combine their strong interest in business with their interests in non-business disciplines including the humanities, social sciences, math, or the sciences. It provides a unique option for students who have strong academic or career interests that bridge business and other disciplines. The specialization requires that students approach business questions in an interdisciplinary fashion—from a perspective that integrates concepts and skills from several areas of study— and to make deep connections between business and non-business disciplines. The specialization provides an opportunity for a student to combine two or more academic passions into something fascinating and relevant for them.

IDB is an appropriate specialization for students with a variety of interests who appreciate that business problems require business-discipline knowledge and capacities that are enhanced by studies in non-business subjects. Such students seek an understanding of society, government, politics, technology, language, and culture, as well as the capacity to understand and communicate with others. These students are flexible and will be of value to an organization in many different areas; they will remain engaged, lifelong learners who benefit from their exposure to a range of problem solving methods and ways of thinking.

In addition to allowing students to take advanced courses in a variety of business and non-business disciplines beyond the business common body of knowledge, rather than concentrating in one particular area of business, the specialization requires that students have a secondary, identified focus of study beyond their IDB specialization. This secondary focus of study may include an approved set of five courses from disciplines outside the School of Business that demonstrate a coherent, viable theme, a second major, or a minor that is not from either a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (BSBA) or Bachelor of Science in Accountancy discipline. Students will work with their advisors to develop their career plan, which will include their choice of business option courses and their secondary focus of study relevant to their academic and career interests. The approved set of five courses may include courses taken to fulfill the College's liberal learning requirements. For example, a student who is interested in Western Europe may choose to minor in history or may instead choose to take courses in the history, literature, politics, art, religion and languages of Western Europe. The intent is that each student's education should be both individualized and interdisciplinary.

IDB students are required to meet with an advisor to develop a preliminary academic plan prior to the registration period during their second semester of sophomore year. Holds will be placed on the student's record and they will not be allowed to register for junior year classes without the approval of a preliminary academic plan. To continue as a student in the IDB Specialization finalized academic plans must be submitted to the Department for approval by October 1st of the student's junior year.

Curriculum and internship opportunities may be tailored to meet individual career or academic interests. Students are provided with a solid academic foundation that prepares them for careers in a variety of profit and non-profit organizations, corporate training programs, entrepreneurial careers, and entrance into graduate or law school.

Three tracks are available within the IDB specialization.

Guided Self-Designed Track

Students choosing this track work with advisors to craft their choice of business and non-business courses to meet their academic and career interests. With the guidance of their advisors, students may take appropriate business and non-business courses to fulfill the School's breadth, specialization, and capstone requirements. This track permits flexibility in the business curriculum while providing a solid foundation in the functional areas of business.

Required courses:

- BUS 99 and BUS 100 (0 unit required courses)
- ECO 101, ECO 102
- MAT 125 or 127, STA 115 or 215
- BUS 200
- ACC 201, ACC 202
- MGT 235, ECO 231, STA 305 or other courses by advisement. (Choice of a secondary focus, if it includes substantial quantitative work may determine course choice)
- FIN 201, MGT 201, IST 201 and MKT 201 (.5 course units each)

- One breadth course in each area (Finance, Management, Information Systems & Technology, and Marketing)
- MGT 360 or MKT 360
- MGT 499
- Three option courses, business or non-business, by advisement; no more than two options can have the same prefix
- BUS 498 or BUS 495 (by advisement)
- Required secondary focus of study, second major or minor from other than a BSBA or Bachelor of Science in Accountancy degree program

Students must also satisfy an international business requirement, which should be met through Business Breadth or major options. Courses include: BUS 360, BUS 380, ECO 335, ECO 340, ECO 345, FIN 340, INB, 250, INB 260, INB 330/FIN 335, INB 365, MGT 310, MGT 380, MKT 340.

Business and Public Policy Track

An appreciation of the role of government policy and regulation is critical to managing a business in the global economy. Business people need to consider the policies underlying the laws that govern business activity both in the U.S. and in other countries. The Business and Public Policy Track will enable students to gain an understanding of the implication of government decisions on business and the impact of lobbying on lawmaking.

Students choosing this track will be prepared for careers in both the public and private sectors, including working for regulatory agencies and government relations and compliance departments. This track is also excellent preparation for graduate and professional programs.

Required Courses:

- BUS 99 and BUS 100 (0 unit required courses)
- ECO 101, ECO 102
- MAT 125 or 127, STA 115 or 215
- BUS 200
- ACC 201, ACC 202
- MGT 235, ECO 231, STA 305 or other courses by advisement. (Choice of a secondary focus, if it includes substantial quantitative work may determine course choice)
- FIN 201, MGT 201, MKT, 201, IST 201 (.5 course units each)
- One breadth course in each area (Finance, Marketing, Management and Information Systems & Technology)

Innovation Track

This track invites students to think about how they can change the world. Innovation is an interdisciplinary search for new approaches and solutions, including new products, services, social enterprises, understandings, and institutions. The track explores the process of innovation, where new ideas come from, how students can learn to generate and deliver innovations, how and why certain conditions promote innovation, and the ethical and social implications of innovation. The track will invite students to combine innovation-specific courses with coursework from outside the business school to develop the interdisciplinary insights that can inspire innovative thinking.

Required Courses:

- BUS 99 and BUS 100 (0 unit required courses)
- ECO 101, ECO 102
- MAT 125 or 127, STA 115 or 215
- BUS 200
- ACC 201, ACC 202
- MGT 235, ECO 231, STA 305 or other courses by advisement. (Choice of a secondary focus, if it includes substantial quantitative work may determine course choice)
- FIN 201, MGT 201, MKT, 201, IST 201 (.5 course units each)
- One breadth course in each area (Finance, Marketing, Management and Information Systems & Technology)
- MGT 360 or MKT 360
- MGT 499
- BUS/MGT 375
- Choose one course from the following: MGT 381, MKT 335 or TST 161.
- Choose one course from the following: BUS 380, IDS 252, IMM 370 (Topic: The Cult of Technology), other option by advisement.
- BUS 498 or BUS 495 (by advisement)

Management Specialization

Faculty: Ghitulescu, Han, Kim, Lillevik, Neves, Wang

The Management Specialization provides students with essential knowledge, skills and mindset to stand out as leaders in organizations, teams and communities. Emphasis is given to understanding organizational dynamics and the foundations of decision-making and leadership, as well as identifying the behavioral, social and environmental factors that influence managerial performance and the relationship between business and society.

Coursework in the Management Specialization helps students master the knowledge and skills needed to 1) motivate, lead and develop others; 2) analyze organizational structures, processes and culture that empower individuals and businesses to excel; 3) develop strategic perspectives that enable organizations to compete in a global economy; and 4) balance the interests of multiple stakeholders in a complex legal, political, and ethical environment.

The curriculum includes organization-wide topics such as Supply Chain Design and Logistics, Managing Organizational Change, Entrepreneurship, and Ethics and Corporate Social Responsibility; behavioral foundation courses such as Organizational Behavior; policy courses such as Human Resource Management, Compensation Management and Strategic Management; and skill-building courses such as Negotiation, Leadership, Cross-Cultural Management, and Decision-Making.

Required Courses

The required course units for a specialization in management are as follows:

- BUS 99 and BUS 100 (0 unit required courses)
- ECO 101, ECO 102
- MAT 125 or 127, STA 115 or 215 (students considering a minor in Statistics should take STA 215 to fulfill the requirements of that minor)
- BUS 200
- ACC 201, ACC 202
- MGT 235 or ECO 231
- FIN 201, MGT 201, IST 201 and MKT 201 (.5 course units each)
- One breadth course in each area (Finance, Marketing, and Information Systems & Technology)

- MGT 301 and MGT 320
- MGT 360 or MKT 360
- MGT 499
- Two MGT option courses (any course with a MGT prefix or BUS 325)
- MGT 498 or MGT 495 (by advisement)

Students must also satisfy an international business requirement, which should be met through Business Breadth or major options. Courses include: BUS 360, ECO 335, ECO 340, ECO 345, FIN 340, INB 250, INB 260, INB 330/FIN 335, INB 365, MGT 310, MGT 380, MKT 340.

The Management Specialization has three tracks: general management, human resource management, and supply chain management. The General Management track is well-suited to the students who are seeking a solid foundation in managerial knowledge and skills needed to become high performing managers, change agents, consultants, or entrepreneurs in profit and non-profit organizations.

The Human Resource Management track prepares students to enter a career in human resources, and many students pursuing this track will complete the Professional in Human Resources (PHR) certification. Careers in this area include positions as human resources managers, training and development professionals, and compensation specialists. Required courses in the Human Resource Management track are MGT 301 and MGT 320; two courses from the following: MGT 310, MGT 330, MGT 345 and BUS 325; and MGT 405 by advisement or MGT 498 Management Seminar with an HRM topic. Additional recommended courses (but not required) are ECO 315, MGT 370 Training and Development, and BUS 399 Internship in the HRM field.

The Supply Chain Management track provides students with a thorough knowledge and a rigorous understanding of key concepts, quantitative skills, analytical tools, and operational strategies in the field of supply chain management. Activities such as procurement, production, distribution, logistics and sales, should be carefully coordinated between all supply chain participants to bring the right products and services to the right customers, in the right quantity, at the right time and price. Supply chain professionals are actively involved in the decision-making of every department in a firm and use state-of-the-art tools and techniques to improve the firm's operational efficiencies, especially with emerging opportunities in globalization, big data, information sharing, and humanitarian logistics. Required courses for the Supply Chain Management track are MKT 360; MGT 360; MGT 365, MGT 498 Supply Chain Strategies and a MGT course option. Additional recommended courses (but not required) are IST 310 or IST 350, FIN 320 and MKT 370 Channels of Distribution.

Marketing Specialization

Faculty: Becker-Olsen, Brechman, Duan, Inyang, Keep, McCarty, Tucci

Marketing is both an orientation that organizations may adopt with respect to how they conduct business and a functional area. As an orientation, being marketing-focused means that an organization recognizes it must consider the wants and needs of its customers in order to be successful. As a functional area, marketing is responsible for generating the revenue that sustains the operation of the organization. Marketing includes numerous activities aimed at creating satisfying exchange relationships between the organization and its customers. These activities include the selection of appropriate customers, developing the product to satisfy customer needs, setting a price that will make the exchange profitable, developing ways of communicating with customers, and managing supply and distribution relationships. Marketing professionals need to possess analytical skills and be creative thinkers.

The marketing courses in the School of Business provide students with ample opportunities to exercise their creativity, strengthen analytical and critical thinking skills, and develop communication and interpersonal skills. There are a variety of employment opportunities in marketing including positions in marketing management, sales management and professional selling, retail management, supply chain management, advertising, and marketing research.

Students must also satisfy an international business requirement, which should be met through Business Breadth or major options. Courses include: BUS 360, BUS 380, ECO 335, ECO 340, ECO 345, FIN 340 (or other courses by advisement), INB 260, INB 330/FIN 335, INB 365, MGT 310, MGT 380, MKT 340.

Program Entrance, Retention, and Exit Standards

Every major and specialization program at the College has set standards for allowing students to remain in that program, to transfer within the College from one program to another, and to graduate from a program.

Students are strongly discouraged from requesting changes of major or specialization after their junior year. Changes of major or specialization after the junior year will be processed by the School of Business, but students are not guaranteed that completion of the remaining requirements in the new major or specialization may be accomplished within their remaining two semesters. Students are encouraged to consult with faculty advisors and with the assistant dean for student services prior to requesting a change of major or specialization.

The following are the standards for the specializations in business administration. Minimum grades are noted in parentheses.

Finance

- Retention into the program is based on the following performance standards: a minimum grade of a (C) in FIN 310
- Transfer into the program is based on the following performance standards: a minimum grade of (B) in FIN 201 and a professional resume.
- Graduation requires a GPA of 2.0 in courses for the program.

Interdisciplinary Business

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in these “critical content courses”: a minimum grade of (C) in two of the four required breadth courses (MKT, MGT, IST, FIN).
- Transfer into the program from another program within the College is based upon the following performance standards: minimum grade of (C+) in BUS 200 and a preliminary plan approved by a faculty advisor in the program.
- Graduation requires a GPA of 2.0 in courses for the program.

Management

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in this “critical content course”: a grade of C in MGT 301.

- Transfer into the program from another program within the College is based upon the following performance standards: minimum grade of (C) in MGT 201, and an essay discussing interest in the program.
- Graduation requires a GPA of 2.0 in courses for the program.

Marketing

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in these “critical content courses”: MKT 300, (C).
- Transfer into the program from another program within the College is based upon the following performance standards: MKT 201, (C+), and a minimum grade of C in MAT 125, MAT 127, STA 115, or STA 215.
- Graduation requires a GPA of 2.0 in courses for the program.
