

Summer and Winter Sessions

Summer Session opportunities include an intensive three-week session offered in May through June and five-week sessions offered in mid-June through mid-July and in mid-July to mid-August. For session dates and information, see summer.tcnj.edu.

Winter Session takes place between the fall and spring semesters, and dates vary accordingly, including a three-week mini session offered in January and five-week sessions offered in late December. For dates and information, see the College's Academic Calendar at academics.tcnj.edu/academic-calendars/ and the winter session website at winter.tcnj.edu.

Summer and Winter Session courses may be used by students at The College of New Jersey toward their majors and/or minors, provided they meet the requirements of those programs. Students who are academically dismissed from TCNJ are not eligible to register for either a summer or winter course at the College. They are not permitted to return enrolling as a visiting student. Students at the College who have a financial hold will be blocked from registering, while also holding grades, unless full payment is received. TCNJ courses are, also, regularly transferred to many other colleges and universities; however, visiting students expecting to transfer summer or winter credit to other institutions should secure, in advance, approval of their course selection from the institution to which they wish to transfer credit.

Summer and Winter Session offerings include courses regularly offered at The College of New Jersey in face-to-face, blended and online formats. The College also offers faculty-led domestic/international travel program opportunities (see Center for Global Engagement) during the timeframes of the summer and winter sessions.
