Students may cover more than one requirement with a single course, but no more than one geographic region. Please note that at least two "early" (pre-1500) courses are required and can be fulfilled at the 100/200/300 or 400 level. Pre-modern courses will be noted in PAWS each semester. Students seeking certification to teach social studies at the secondary level are subject to additional professional requirements, including a semester of practice teaching. See below, History Major: Secondary Education.

Requirements for the Minor

Five course units minimum. Three courses must be 300 or 400 level and from at least two geographical categories: Africa, East Asia, Eurasia, Europe, Latin America, Middle East, North America, South Asia, or World Topics. The 200 level foundational courses are reserved for History majors, though History minors may enroll if space is available. Occasionally a professor may admit a History minor to a Readings Seminar (HIS 450-465), if space is available.

Departmental Honors in History

Students who earn Departmental Honors in History write an original piece of historical scholarship work of at least 50 pages on a topic and based on primary source research. Each spring semester, honors applications will be distributed to majors. The honors sequence in history includes two units usually taken over two semesters (HIS 498 Honors Capstone and HIS 496 Honors Independent Research). Most students pursuing Departmental honors complete their Honors Capstone course and Honors Independent Research over two semesters during their senior year, but students may petition to complete this coursework in the junior year if they cannot do so during their senior year. (For example, students in education or 7-year med programs.)

To apply for departmental honors, students must identify a faculty member willing to serve as their faculty sponsor and submit a completed application by the announced deadline. Faculty will only agree to supervise students for this track who demonstrate a likelihood of success through the high quality of their previous coursework in History, their submitted application, and background coursework in the area of their proposed research plan.

The application for Departmental Honors will be sent to majors each Spring semester. The application includes the preliminary title of your proposed project, the name and signature of the faculty mentor, a research proposal, short bibliography and a preliminary research schedule. A committee of at least three faculty members will review applications and select qualified students in time for registration.

Students who successfully complete the following will be awarded “Departmental Honors in History” upon degree completion.

- The Honors Capstone course (HIS 498), an intensive seminar focusing on advanced research methods, theory, and historiography (offered each Fall)
- A one-unit Honors Independent Research with your thesis sponsor, taken in Spring (Students may only take HIS 498 and HIS 496 simultaneously with department chair permission in extenuating circumstances)
- A presentation at the Celebration for Student Achievement
- A completed thesis submitted to the History Department and the faculty sponsor in April, the exact date announced each academic year
- A successful private defense of your thesis before a faculty committee during the last two weeks of the semester.

Program Entrance, Retention, and Exit Standards

Every major program at the College has set standards for allowing students to remain in that program, to transfer within the College from one program to another, and to graduate from a program. The following are the standards for History programs. Minimum grades are noted in parentheses:

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in this “critical content course”: HIS 210 Craft of History (C+) and performance at GPA of 2.0 or above in History courses.
- Graduation requires a GPA of 2.0, in History courses and overall, for students in History: Liberal Arts. For students seeking secondary education certification: in order to be eligible for institutional recommendation for teacher certification, all candidates must successfully complete program requirements, attain a 3.0

cumulative GPA, and earn a minimum student teaching grade of B-.

History Major: Secondary Education

Professional courses needed to earn certification to teach secondary social studies are taken during the second, third and fourth years of college. An overview of the entire secondary-level teacher preparation sequence for students can be found in the section of this bulletin for the Department of Education Administration and Secondary Education.

Students planning to teach at the middle or high school level should consult with their advisor in planning their academic program. These plans should take into account requirements for: the major, the College Core, professional courses, and state certification.

Candidates for a teacher-education certificate must establish a minimum 3.0 GPA in order to be allowed to student teach. Candidates for a teacher-education certificate must have a 2.75 or higher cumulative grade point average to successfully complete their teacher education program. They also must meet the state hygiene/physiology requirement, the state Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying Prevention (HIB) training certificate requirement, and pass the appropriate Praxis examination. Teacher-education candidates will receive a “certificate of eligibility with advanced standing” which requires a candidate to be provisionally certified for his or her first year of teaching. After one year of successful teaching, the candidate is eligible for a permanent certificate.
