

Law, Politics, and Philosophy Minor

Coordinator: Dumas

Advisors: Bowen, Canavan, Domingo, Leigey, Marino, McGreevey, Michels, Monseau, Roberts

Law, Politics, and Philosophy, the interdisciplinary prelaw minor, exposes students to the study of law from a variety of fields including political science, philosophy, criminology, history, and economics.. The minor provides students with broad exposure to legal study to give students a greater appreciation for and understanding of the law and different approaches to studying law and courts. The minor requires students to take challenging courses outside their major and includes rigorous training in the analytic and writing skills that prepare them for success on the Law School Aptitude Test (LSAT) and in law school.

Requirements for the Minor

PHL 120/Introduction to Logic	1 course unit
ECO 101/Principles of Microeconomics	1 course unit
Options	3 course units

Total 5 course units

- Only one course can be double counted toward a major.
- No more than two courses can be from the same department.
- At least two courses must be at the 300 or 400 level.

Options

The options are designed to have students take challenging courses outside their majors that will contribute to their understanding of the law as a discipline. Students interested in pursuing this minor should contact one of the advisors listed above to obtain information regarding approved options; approved options may also be found at prelaw.tcnj.edu/politics-law-and-philosophy-minor/.
